

« The Dark End of the Street | Main | US military pours millions into 'EEG telepathy' »

May 14, 2009

Visual Illusion Contest 2009 winners:

The results of the annual visual illusion contest have just been announced and the 2009 winner is a doozy.

Like all the best visual illusions it's conceptually simple but perceptually striking. In this case a falling ball seems to drop vertically when you look straight at it but seems to glide away at an angle when you see it in your peripheral vision.

Rather nicely, you can switch between the two effects just by looking back and forth. Make sure you click on the 'Reversal' button as well for a free-wheeling alternative version.

Visual illusions: the scooby snacks of perceptual psychology.

Link to Visual Illusion Contest website (via @mocost).

—Vaughan.

Posted at May 14, 2009 08:00 AM

Comments

chaplain says:

The most amazing optical illusion I've ever seen!

Comment posted at May 14, 2009 08:11 PM

Post a comment

You are not signed in. You need to be registered to comment on this site. Sign in